NEW WEBSITE AND MEMBERSHIP DATABASE SYSTEM

The Australian and New Zealand Society of Respiratory Science Ltd (ANZSRS) was formed in 1980 to serve the professional needs of scientists and technologists employed in clinical respiratory function laboratories. The members of the ANZSRS are drawn from all regions of Australia and New Zealand. Society membership numbers approximately 350.

THE CHALLENGE:

- Create an aesthetically pleasing website with backend database functionality
- Provide a secure membership portal for members.
- Manually keeping track of paid 'non-certified' memberships and 'certified' memberships.
- Assessing membership applications complex and time-consuming
- Creating e-learning portal to facilitate the certification process.

THE SOLUTION:

- Highly functional website with CMS
- Restricted member access
- Solution integrated with ANZSRS's other software applications, including Xero
- Automation of Membership Status and Payments via eWay payment gateway
- Central membership database

RESULT:

The project optimised and streamlined the membership process between applications and certifications, improved the accuracy, integrity and consistency of data, and drastically reduced the amount of time and financial resources spent on data maintenance and system integration.

Automating the process enabled optimisation of ANZSRS's processes as a whole, which reduced operational costs and enabled staff to work more effectively.

- Improved operational performance by x%
- Reduced time and money spend on data maintenance
- Improved accuracy, integrity and consistency of data
- Improved organisational operations

“ We were a rapidly growing society that needed to continually update and communicate to our paid membership base. Our previous systems were archaic and relied on manual excel spreadsheets. What ITConnexion have been able to deliver is a brand new website that interfaces with a custom-built membership & database.

Our members can now update their own records online via a secure portal and receive regular newsletters and relevant updates via the new systems put into place. ITConnexion also set ANZSRS up on Office 365 and SharePoint, so it hasn't just been the new website and content management system, but the database management and email system that has been so beneficial.

ITConnexion have definitely demonstrated good value. They were able to present and communicate the project in a way that made sense. They kept the project within budget and have been a one-stop- shop for all of our IT needs.
